

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —

Each time when we start out on a walk through the countryside, we struggle with the choice of where to go. Will it be to the forest of pines, where there is grandeur and there is solemnity? Here we observe certain peculiarities of light and shade, very much like sun shining into a room through a half-opened shutter. Should we choose the little river and follow it leaving behind the politics and life's hurry? And listen instead to the thrushes and white throated sparrow?

We can never have enough of nature, with its wilderness, with its living and decaying trees, with its flowers which impart brightness like sunshine to the landscape and with the thrills about us.

Today, woolly lambs romped a sky of blue. The air was filled with distilled essences of flowers, ferns, and the moist things of the woods as we left home.

We had seen a road which we had hoped to explore. It didn't lead where we had hoped. The old original one had grown to bushes and trees. This one led us to a log landing. It didn't seem like too great a price to pay for a good trail especially when you had rather wander through the woods than anything else; with or without your hopes fulfilled.

Returning, we then took another trail, one over which I traveled when very young. We lolled along for a half mile and found that this, too, was used more in winter than in summer; so we again returned to the car.

The third road was one very familiar but there were new things to see.

There was a spirit of tranquility and brooding fulfillment over all. The sun hung like a molten gold ball and shone directly upon a purple tinged orchid by a tiny culvert. It stood stately and alone.

The new growth of hemlocks showed their delicate light green in harmony with the deep, rich hue of the older foliage. It's an everyday tree, but does its part in bringing beauty to our countryside.

We climbed a rather steep hill and came to a bridge. We turned right here and went through bushes below the bridge to a ledge. The brook ran gayly over the exposed rocks and pebbles. Under the bank, I looked for a speckled trout but none was there. Tall trees and bushes shaded the water as it ran its unhurried way.

After a short stay we turned back toward home, where we met others on their way to the Lee Caves.

There are many advances in science and complicated things which are good, but often the simple things go unnoticed; those common place everyday miracles: the growing green grass, bubbling of a tiny brook, or the beauty of a roadside flower.

I recall reading how Winston Churchill, during the Second World War observed that a love of flowers is one of the noblest qualities of the human mind and added, "You can live a long time with a geranium."

So ended another July day during which we had enjoyed the aromatic shade, sudden zephyrs and sun-hot fragrance from the thickets, the song of the brook, slopes of cleared meadows sweet with hay-time, delicate lace ferns and vines over warm granite, green-white covering of bunchberries and finally sparks of light spangling the velvet dark. Fireflies! Then thrushes and thrushes the evening through with their music from greenery, washing against our ears as steady as the surf of the ocean.

On Wednesday, Ruth Hastings and I went to the Delta Kappa

COMMENTS FROM THE

TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

uled assessors' work sessions for Wednesday, July 14, and Monday, July 19; and discussed the Shelburne Dam with Richard Sweetser.

On Wednesday, July 7, the Planning Board met in regular session and discussed a variety of items. Sue O'Donnell and Arthur Froburg of the Recreation Board were present to discuss the planned review of the Town's Comprehensive Plan. They offered the assistance of the Recreation Board in reviewing aspects of the Comprehensive Plan dealing with recreation sites and facilities. As a result of the discussions, it was agreed that the two Boards would work together to locate potential recreational sites and facilities for future use.

In other action, the Board reviewed correspondence from Mrs.
Florence Benson regarding the division of a piece of land on Route 232 and voted to grant her a valance to the subdivision regulations. There were general discussions of the Board's membership, records and secretarial responsibilities. The Board also discussed the Board of Selectmen's request that the Planning Board review the Town's comprehensive Plan and develop drafts of a zoning ordinance and building codes. As a first step, Board members were asked to review the 1967 Comprehensive Plan. The next meeting of the Board will be Wednesday, July 21, at 7:30 p. m. in the Town Office. At this meeting, two representatives of the Androscoggin Valley Regional Planning Commission will be present to discuss the methods and techniques of updating a Comprehensive Plan and to outline the assistance the Commission can provide.

The State Board of Environmental Protection has ordered the town to comply with the schedule to cease open burning of solid wastes at the dump by July 1, 1977. The order also directs the town to report its studies of alternative methods by Nov. 1, 1976.
The town has been aware of this situation and is working with the Androscoggin Valley Regional Planning Commission to prepare plans and cost estimates for converting to a sanitary land fill operation at the dump. Such report should be completed before Sept.
1, 1976.

PUBLIC IS WARNED OF
DANGERS OF CAMPING OUT
The urge to camp out during the summer months can lead to injuries, even death, the Health Engineering Unit of the Maine
Department of Human Services has said.

James Datis, chief sanitarian, warned that sleeping bags and tents can turn fun into tragedy if children and campers fail to be cautious, especially regarding fires.

During 1975, an estimated 2,736 people in the nation were treated in hospital emergency rooms around the country in connection with accidents involving tents, sleeping bags, cots, hammocks and other similar camping-type materials. Many involved fires.

In one example, a 17-year-old boy on a camping trip rolled over onto hot coals while asleep in bedding gear. The bag caught fire and the youth was fatally burned.

There are voluntary industry standards on tent and sleeping bag flammability.

Persons who use tents or supply the use of tents by children should take care to consider that tents and sleeping bags burn.

Health Engineering offers the following safety tips:
—Use flame-retardant tents and sleeping bags if possible, but assume tents and sleeping bags are flammable and be careful with fire.
—Keep stoves, lanterns and candles out of tents.
—Place campfires and stoves away from tents or sleeping gear, keep fire downwind.
—Extinguish fires before going to sleep.
—Keep cooking, heating and lighting equipment in good repair and follow instructions in its use.
—Don't smoke cigarettes, pipes or cigars near sleeping bags.
—Avoid using carbon monoxide releasing charcoal and catalytic products in unventilated areas.
—Transport flammable liquids in safety containers, keep them rapped out of tents and away from children.

S. A. D. #44 DIRECTORS MEET

left appointed Woodrow Mercier to serve as his agent to the NOVA board. A meeting of the re-constituted NOVA board was held in Rumford Tuesday evening of this week to explore alternatives available to the board. Phillip Morales of Andover has resigned as one of the S. A. D. #44 representatives to the NOVA Board. Archie Young, a Bethel resident, has been appointed to the NOVA board by Mrs. Patricia Hudson, S. A. D.
#44 board chairman, to replace
Mr. Morales.

The board rejected all bids received for maintenance work in district schools. The superintendent was instructed to re-write the specifications and to include the additional items of storage room sills and flooring at the Locke Mills School. The directors voted not to install carpeting at the Locke Mills School. The final decision for accepting or rejecting bids will be left to the Building and Grounds Committee.

The board granted initial approval to a non-discrimination policy in accordance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Public Law 92-318, and amendments thereto in Public Law. Under the policy the S. A. D. #44 directors declare "formally that it is the policy of the Board in its actions, and those of its employees, that there shall be no discrimination on the basis of sex for employment in participation, or operation and administration of any education program or activity in the S. A. D. #44 Schools." Also included in the policy is a coordinator of inquiries, complaints and other communication relative to non-discrimination because of sex, and a procedure for the handling of grievances.

The directors authorized the superintendent to prepare a recommended policy of student conduct for board consideration at its second regular meeting in October.

A request of the Bethel Recreation Board to lay-out a ski touring trail on the Crescent Park School playground was approved by the board. No expense to the district is to be incurred by this project.

The board accepted the M. S.

injuries, even death, the Health
Engineering Unit of the Maine
Department of Human Services
has said.

James Datis, chief sanitarian,
warned that sleeping bags and
fires.

people in the nation were treated
in hospital emergency rooms ar-
with accidents involving tents,
other similar camping-type materials. Many involved fires.

boy on a camping trip rolled over
onto hot coals while asleep in
and the youth was fatally burned.

There are voluntary industry
flammability.

Persons who use tents or supply the use of tents by chil-
burn.

Health Engineering offers the
following safety tips:
fire.
—Keep stoves, lanterns and candles out of tents.
—Place campfires and stoves
away from tents or sleeping gear,
keep fire downwind.
to sleep.
and follow instructions in its use.
—Don't smoke cigarettes, pipes
or cigars near sleeping bags.
products in unventilated areas.
in safety containers, keep them
from children.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor: July 13, 1976

With the death of Miss Mina Stevens, the community has lost a woman of great integrity and character. As a former student, I shall always be grateful to her for the profound influence she exerted upon me during my years at East Bethel Primary School.

One of her great abilities was to make her students aware of how rich their experience could be with few of the gadgets and facilities that appear so necessary today. I never recall being bored or disinterested and have always looked upon this time as one of the happiest of my life.

Sincerely,
Stanley R. Howe

To the Editor: July 14, 1976

During the past weeks I have talked with many of our Bethel taxpayers. While circulating our petition to postpone using Sewall Co. figures for a year, I learned that some people with newer houses were satisfied with their evaluation. A new house is easy to estimate. The owner knows about what he has in it and what he could get for it. However several prominent citizens, that stood to pay several hundred dollars less this year on their houses using the new evaluation, signed the petition. Why? Because they knew newly built houses were done and many mistakes. One man stated that it would take a year to iron out old mistakes and new ones on evaluations. Also in a year-maybe August would be clear on school funding, rates, etc. that will affect all towns in Maine.

I found that people with older houses were definitely overvalued and unhappy.

Some, but not many, found that the proposed 17 mill rate would lower their taxes and didn't sign the petition.

I've talked to several larger land holders. Larger timber lots of over 10 acres will have to be put under tree growth protection. Farm land, if it will bring in over a thousand dollars a year, can go under a land use shelter at a reduced rate. In other words, one can benefit from much less tax if he declares a specified use of a large piece of land to grow timber or a crop. If he ever decides to change this use, such as to a house lot, a stiff penalty will be imposed and make it impractical.

Several land owners have said that they would strip their woodlots and let the bare land go for whatever price an out-of-stater would pay for a stripped swamp or mountain. Maybe the town could have it. In Rumford, I know of cases this was done.

Quite a few citizens, including myself, would like to talk to our town assessors. I realize that they already spend a lot of time at a low-paying, criticized job. Howev-
